

-
- USCIS notes in the final rule that it interprets "likely at any time" to mean that it is "more likely than not" that the individual at any time in the future will receive one or more public benefits as defined by the rule