History

The Enid Community Corrections Center, located in Enid, Oklahoma, opened in 1974 as a treatment center. The center is an all male facility, with a 99 bed capacity. The facility, formerly a motel, consists of five large buildings and two smaller storage/laundry buildings.

Mission

The mission of Enid Community Corrections Center (ECCC): Staff, Volunteers, and Offenders working together to enhance public safety through effective reentry programs that promotes pro-social behaviors, positive work habits and sober living.

OFFENDER PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES

Career Tech Welding Program

Offenders are currently participating in the Career Tech Welding Certification Program. The program is a joint venture between Enid CCC, Career Tech and Autry Vo-Tech in Enid. The school is situated east of the city on the grounds of the Woodring Municipal Airport. Offenders are placed at Pelagic Tank to do on-the-job training. Those who successfully complete the program will receive their welding certification and assistance with job placement in a competitive field. Multiple graduates from the program are currently living in the community and are employed as welders.

Prisoner Public Works Programs (PPWP)

Many offenders are assigned to one of various PPWP crews or community service organizations. Included among these are the City of Enid, Northern Oklahoma College, Department of Transportation and the Northern Oklahoma Resource Center. The facility also has offenders working in the community on work release status.

100 Hour Transition Program

ECCC implemented the 100 hour transition program in October of 2010. This program is held quarterly and involves community members and staff for instruction. ECCC has partnered with Associated Therapeutic Services (ATS) to provide licensed and professional instruction free of charge. Offenders must be within 30 days of GPS, Halfway House placement, paroled or discharged to participate in the program. The program is designed with a three phase curriculum of:

- Goals and Communication
- Family and Health
- Community and Responsibility

The offenders leave with a resume and various resources to help them re-enter society.

Standing Tall Addiction Recovery (STAR)

is a substance abuse program at Enid Community Corrections Center. The core of the Standing Tall Addiction Recovery (STAR) program provided by ATS for Enid Community Corrections Center (ECCC) consists of two classes of twelve clients meeting at staggered times for three hours, three times per week. The material is based on a sixteen week rotation. Each client will complete all goals determined in the Individualized Client Treatment Case Plan and by completing various other assignments that relate to the material presented in class and based on the individual client's specific needs. The program as a whole is designed to help the client proceed through the Stages of Change by meeting him at his level, and utilize his own identified strengths to help him move on at his own pace.

Community Corrections

The concept of community corrections has been well established in Oklahoma for some time. On March 18, 1970, the Oklahoma Crime Commission awarded the Department of Corrections a grant to open community treatment centers in the state. The first, Oklahoma City Community Treatment Center, was opened October of 1970. Since that time the Department of Corrections has introduced additional centers in Tulsa*, Enid, Lawton, Muskogee*, Oklahoma City, McAlester* and Union City. All operate under guidelines set forth by state statutes, the Board of Corrections, and the policies of the Oklahoma Department of Corrections. Inherent in these guidelines is a basic philosophy of providing increased opportunities to offenders for engaging in responsible behaviors.

Denotes community corrections centers no longer operating.*
