History

The Jess Dunn institution was originally constructed in 1930 and used as a mental hospital for black patients only. Through the years, the institution has been used as a tuberculosis sanitarium, a juvenile girl's facility, and a juvenile co-ed home. In April 1980, the facility was transferred from the Department of Human Services to the Oklahoma Department of Corrections (ODOC). Jess Dunn Correctional Center is a minimum security facility located in Taft, Oklahoma.

The institution is located on approximately 1,100 acres and is comprised of six major buildings that house residents and administration. Maintenance shops, farm complex, laundry, vo-tech, supply, and other support operations are housed in other assorted buildings on the institutional grounds.
