Oklahoma has a very pro-business attitude. The state and local governments are very focused on supporting job creation and economic development. There is also a world-class technical training system with locations all across the state. In addition, the cost of living in Oklahoma is among the lowest in the country but the quality of life is among the highest.

Oklahoma is business-friendly and constantly finding new ways to accommodate businesses.

While other states impose harsh regulations and increase corporate taxes, Oklahoma has reduced regulations and offers enticing business incentives.
